I Can See Clearly Now: Seeking First God's Kingdom

Our perspective determines both the quality and meaning of the situations we encounter in life, and our responses to those events and happenings, whether they be positive or difficult. As followers of Jesus Christ, we have been gifted with the Holy Spirit, who equips and transforms our hearts and minds to be conformed to the mind of Christ. As our comforter and teacher, he establishes within us the mind of Christ so we may represent Christ in the roles and relationships we manage within our life circles. As those who anchor their entire lives on the person and work of Christ, we must strive to see things as God does through his eyes, and respond with courage and faith.

During our time of interaction and study, we will explore the power of Kingdom perspectives and priorities, and their ability to transform us in our life challenges and opportunities, where we live, work, and play. First, we will discover Christ as our life and source, i.e., what it means to make Christ supreme and central in our discipleship and witness. Next, we will explore the significance of the Church, i.e., how Christian community enriches and equips us to follow Christ in our theology, worship, and spiritual formation. Finally, we will engage serving as Christ's ambassadors, agents of the Kingdom of God among our families, friends, and associates, and how we can make a difference for Christ and his kingdom in the very places, roles, and life situations where God has appointed us. Our sessions and discussions will seek to help us to see clearly what it means to live as 21st century disciples of Christ in the midst of a time and a society that desperately needs his touch today.

This conference is open to everyone: men and women, couples and singles, teenagers to retirees. Please join us Saturday, November 6th. Bring your Bible, notebook and friends.

SPEAKER

Dr. Don Davis

Dr. Don Davis, founder and director of The Urban Ministry Institute (TUMI), has been involved in urban ministry and missions with World Impact since 1975. He has spent his entire ministry career seeking to raise up a new generation of qualified spiritual leaders, pastors, and church planters who can build up Christ's church in the most vulnerable and unreached urban communities in America and across the world. As of June 2020, TUMI supported 311 TUMI satellites in 20 countries (64 sites of which are in prisons).

He is a graduate of Wheaton College (B.A., Biblical Studies) and Wheaton Graduate School (M.A., Systematic Theology), with summa cum laude honors in both degrees respectively. He earned his Ph.D. in Religion (2000, Theology and Ethics) from the University of Iowa School of Religion. A recipient of numerous teaching and academic awards, he has also authored a number of books, curricula, and study materials all to equip, empower, and release biblical leaders to serve the Church of Jesus among the poor and oppressed, and display Kingdom transformation where they live and minister.

He married his wife, Beth, in February 1975 and together they have three children (one deceased) and four grandchildren.
